NAME Chris Corton	DESCRIPTION ECETOC (the European Centre for the EcoToxicology and Toxicology of Chemicals) has held two successful workshops on the use of omics sciences in (eco)toxicology. The third workshop will address issues that are of importance in omics sciences such as: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> . Case studies of the application of omics data for risk assessment & regulatory (eco)toxicology . Guidance to help to increase the intrinsic value of omics data and stimulate its use in (eco)toxicology . Impact of omics sciences on the risk assessment process . Can omics data contribute to the elucidation of (1) life stage / subpopulation sensitivity, (2) low dose effects and (3) the effects of mixtures. The meeting will result in a white paper as in previous years. The meeting is important in that it brings together experts in the use of genomics in risk assessment and will foster a continued collaboration of efforts in the US and European scientific communities. NAME Kevin Oshima	DESCRIPTION The purpose for this workshop is to review the proposed project roadmap and plan the pilot studies for 2013. Coming out of this workshop, we plan to produce a document describing the roadmap for this project. The purpose I for this workshop is to present a framework for applying quantitative microbial risk assessment (QMRA) to recreational waters as well as possible applications to wastewater and stormwater treatment. We plan to address limitations, needs and ability to adapt the computer- based applications for QMRA in recreational water. NAME Jennifer Seed	DESCRIPTION This workshop is entitled "ECETOC / WHO-IPCS scientific workshop on 'Mode of Action: Recent developments, regulatory application and future work'". By way of background, in October, 2010 the World Health Organization convened an international meeting to develop a global "umbrella plan" for activities on Mode of Action of chemicals. This strategic planning meeting was held to respond to recommendations of an ECETOC/ILSI/HESI Workshop on Using Mode of Action Information to Improve Regulatory Decision Making on 2-3 November 2009, London, as well as to incorporate the OECD AOP activities and the Agency's efforts in implementing the 2007 NRC report on toxicity testing in the 21st century which uses as its basis mode of action (i.e., understanding or understanding of toxicity pathways). From this meeting a formal international Steering Committee was established.	LOCATION AUSTRIA - VIENNA	European Centre for Ecotoxicology and Toxicology of Chemicals (ECETOC)	Common carrier transportation		X	$2200
				Meals		X	$165
				Lodging		X	$600

In addition, it was decided that further international guidance was needed on the use of mode of action information in risk assessment, and a formal writing group was established to accomplish this. This guidance is now completed, and will be presented and discussed at the workshop.
