NAME Robert Burgess	DESCRIPTION This travel advances U.S. EPA's Office of International and Tribal Affairs (OITA) International Priorities in the following areas: (1) Expanding Access to Clean Water, (2) Reducing Exposure to Toxic Chemicals, and (3) Building Strong Environmental Institutions and Legal Structures. Further, without this mission critical travel, key ORD deliverables to the Program Offices (e.g., OSWER, OW) under ORD's Path Forward research planning process will be delayed. The travel also contributes to U.S. foreign policy objectives with Europe, a region considered a key strategic partner under the IMPLEMENTING ARRANGEMENT between the European Commission and the U.S. EPA to Promote Cooperation on Environmental Research and Ecoinformatics as specifically described in the 2007 Science and Technology Agreement managed by the Department of State. Further, the travel contributes directly to achieving key accomplishments in a program (i.e., EDA-EMERGE) which depends on critical U.S. participation. Specifically, the travel is being performed in order for European and U.S. EPA scientists to gain a better understanding of which emerging contaminants represent the greatest environmental risks as well as to assess the use of passive sampling to monitor these contaminants in the aquatic environment. The majority of this travel is being funded by the EDA-EMERGE Project via the Ruder Boskovic Institute (IRB) (Zagreb, Croatia). Specifically, the EDA-EMERGE Project via the Ruder Boskovic Institute (IRB) (Zagreb, Croatia) will cover flights, housing, most meals and local transport. U.S. EPA will cover TMC, personal phone calls, TAV, some meals and mileage (~ $150). NAME Robert Burgess	DESCRIPTION Dr. Burgess will serve as a member of the Stakeholder Board of the European Union funded SOLUTIONS project for the 2nd General Assembly. In this role, he will provide constructive comments	LOCATION NETHERLANDS - DELFT	SOLUTIONS c/o Dr. David López Herráez (david.lopez-herraez@ufz.de)	Common carrier transportation	X		$1500
				Meals	X		$205
				Lodging	X		$620
				Local transportation	X		$36

on how the project is functioning and give an outsider's perspective on the project's development and progress. The Stakeholder Board is constituted of experts from around the world who are interested in the results of the SOLUTIONS project in terms of the scientific and technological findings. The invitation e-mail and meeting itinerary are attached.

Further, this travel will serve as an opportunity for Dr. Burgess to meet with scientists from around Europe, China, Australia and Brazil, all with a specific interest in understanding how to identify contaminants that are adversely affecting the ecological and human health and sustainability of natural waters. This travel advances U.S. EPA's Office of International and Tribal Affairs (OITA) International Priorities in the following areas: (1) Expanding Access to Clean Water, (2) Reducing Exposure to Toxic Chemicals, and (3) Building Strong Environmental Institutions and Legal Structures. Further, without this mission critical travel, key ORD deliverables to the Program Offices (e.g., OSWER, OW, OCSPP) under ORD's Path Forward research planning process could be delayed. The travel also contributes to U.S. foreign policy objectives with Europe, a region considered a key strategic partner under the IMPLEMENTING ARRANGEMENT between the European Commission and the U.S. EPA to Promote Cooperation on Environmental Research and Ecoinformatics as specifically described in the 2007 Science and Technology Agreement managed by the Department of State. Further, the travel contributes directly to achieving key accomplishments in a program (i.e., the SOLUTIONS project) which depends on critical U.S. EPA participation in an advisory role. Specifically, the travel is being performed in order for European and U.S. EPA scientists to gain a better understanding of which emerging contaminants represent the greatest environmental risks in the aquatic environment.

The SOLUTIONS project brings together experts from Europe, South America, China and Australia and North America to discuss methods for monitoring the presence of and determining the environmental behavior and toxicological effects of conventional and emerging chemicals entering aquatic systems. Many of the emerging contaminants under consideration are of direct interest to the objectives of the U.S. EPA's ORD Path Forward's Safe and Sustainable Water Resources (SSWR) research program. Since the late 1990s, the presence of emerging contaminants in the waters of the United States has been recognized as a source of risk to human and ecological health as well as a source of uncertainty to the continued sustainability of these waters. Topics covered in this meeting are most relevant to the following components of the current SSWR research program: 2.2 Predictive

	tools for sustainable solutions for waterborne chemicals and microbial contaminants: 2.2.1 Chemical and microbial contaminant grouping for evaluating ecological and human health: 2.2.1.2 Ecological effects of pharmaceuticals and personal care products in the marine environment. Most of the travel costs are being paid for by the Germany government's research facility, the UFZ Helmholtz Centre for Environmental Research GmbH (a member of the SOLUTIONS research team). This funding is from a European Union research grant. Specifically, flights, lodging, local transportation, and most meals will be paid for by SOLUTIONS funding via the UFZ Helmholtz Centre for Environmental Research GmbH. Cost to AED are estimated to be less than $300.00. "In cash" reimbursement (see below) will involve Dr. Burgess providing a contact person in the U.S. EPA travel office with Dr. David López Herráez (UFZ Helmholtz Centre for Environmental Research GmbH) contact information. After the travel has occurred, Dr. Herráez will be requested by the travel office to transfer the reimbursement directly to the Agency travel account. Dr. Burgess will have already been reimbursed by the Agency's for his travel costs.

This is a key element in both hazard and risk assessment. Knowledge concerning MOA/AOP is an essential part of designing effective in vitro studies. Yet, for developmental toxicity, only a limited number of MOAs/AOPs have been described. The overarching goal is to use knowledge of MOA/AOP to design integrated testing strategies for prenatal developmental toxicity. The goal is to develop a shared understanding of the technical assistance resources that are available for local and regional climate adaptation practitioners, and identify gaps and redundancies; to create a sense of community among service provider organizations, and build relationships and identify potential collaboration opportunities; and to explore mechanisms that will enable practitioners to more easily identify and access technical assistance resources. NAME Anne Rea	DESCRIPTION Workshop on Ecosystem Services, Environmental Stressors and Decision Making – This workshop will bring together key thinkers from industry, academia, government, and NGOs from around the world to develop consensus on a path forward for putting the ecosystem services concept to practical use in decision making. It will draw on the strengths of the SETAC and ESA communities to review progress in addressing the scientific challenges associated with implementing an ecosystem services approach in environmental decision making. In particular, it will be concerned with the application of the ecosystem services concept to risk assessment and natural resource management and the focus will be on environmental stressors – defined broadly to include chemical, physical and biological direct drivers of change. The workshop will provide technical information (approaches, methods, and requirements) to organizations that wish to incorporate ecosystem service concepts into their policies, practices, and decisions. In addition, the workshop will develop non-technical communications that enhance understanding of the importance of ecosystem services by organizations and the general public. Setzer and Slob will work interactively developing and testing more extensive statistical methods for handling such errors, and extending their work to another broad class of toxicological endpoints. The time will be spent outlining a course of action that the two investigators can pursue once Dr. Setzer returns to the US. This involves developing and running potential statistical algorithms on test data sets and using the results to inform a larger block of work to be performed at the investigators home institutions. The face-to-face interaction will greatly accelerate the development of this work.
